Tinatin Margalitzadze – Professor of Lexicography at the School of Arts and Sciences of Ilia State University;

Research director of the Centre for Lexicography and Language Technologies;

Member of the European Association for Lexicography (EURALEX) since 1997;

Member of the Executive Board of EURALEX from 2012 to 2018;

Organizer and chair of XVII EURALEX International Congress (Tbilisi, 2016);

Member of the Dictionary Society of North America (DSNA) since 2017;

Member of the Governing Board of DSNA since 2023;

Member of the African Association for Lexicography (AFRILEX) since 2017;

Full member of the Consortium “European Master in Lexicography” (EMLEX).

Since 1985 one of the compilers, editors, then editor in chief and publisher of the Comprehensive English-Georgian Dictionary (14 published volumes; online version – www.dict.ge, comprising 110 000 entries). One of the compilers and editor of the English-Georgian Learner’s Dictionary (<https://learners.dict.ge>). Editor of English-Georgian Military Online Dictionary (10 000 entries <http://mil.dict.ge>), English-Georgian Biology Online Dictionary (23 000 entries <http://bio.dict.ge>) and English-Russian-Georgian Technical Online Dictionary (88 000 term pairs <http://techdict.ge>).

Tinatin Margalitzadze studied linguistics and English at Iv. Javakhishvili Tbilisi State University (TSU), Georgia. She did her postgraduate studies at the Chair of English Philology of TSU and in 1983 defended her candidate’s thesis (PhD) “Structural and Semantic Characterization of Adjectives in Modern English”. In 1997 as a visiting scholar, she spent one term at the Department of Linguistics, Cambridge University, Great Britain.

Author and supervisor of the MA program “Lexicography, Terminology and Modern Technologies” and of the PhD module: “Digital Lexicography” within the PhD program “Digital Humanities” at Ilia State University.

She is one of the initiators and organizers of Batumi International Symposia in Lexicography (the first symposium was held in May 2010, and the second – in May 2012).

Her research interests include bilingual lexicography (general and specialized); the problem of equivalence in non-related and related languages; universal models of polysemous words; the history of Georgian lexicography; parallel corpora; corpus-driven lexicography; machine translation.
